EXCITING DAY IN FREDERICKSBURG

A Chapter of Accidents and a Sensational Runaway.

RICHMOND HORSES WIN GOOD PRIZES

A Well-Known Horseman in Au tomobile Shut From Horse Show Grounds Uses His Machine As Battering Ram and Breaks Down Gate.

(Special from a Staff Correspondence.) PREDERICKSBURG, VA., July 12-Five rattling hard falls, two horses smashed up, probably ruined, one nose broken, and a most sensational runaway furnished the excitement for the first day of the horse show.

The fact that Miss Chaffin won a fast steeplechase in good company, and that other Richmond horses made good performances, is worthy of mention.

A well known horse-man in his automobile, when the show grounds were shut to exclude him, ordered his chaffauer to break them down by running his ma-chine against them, the gates were de-molished and the Fredericksburg police arrested every occupant of the motor car.

The owner paid ten dollars fine for each person, and the case was dismissed.

A Fine Success.

Barring the inconvenience of two hard rainstorms that stopped the show for an hour the first day of the Fredericks-burg Horse Show was a great success. A large crowd of representative people gathered at the grounds as early as 3 o'clock to see the opening event, the green hunter class, which brought out green hunter class, which brought out a field of thirty-four, for the most part of fair material.

Mr. White, riding Mr. Osborne's Black Socks, came to grief over the brush jump, and for a moment it looked as thought there would be a serious accident, for the horse was all over the man. He was up and away again, however, before the screams of the women in the grand stand had died away.

Just before the ladies' green bunter class, Mrs. Roland Johnston, of Washington, who was schooling a horse belonging to Mr. Osborne, came within an acc of having an ugly accident. She was in the in-field when the holes bolted for the stable. Mrs. Johnston, in spite of her attempts, could not stop him, and the crowd was treated to the sensational spectacle of the horse carrying the lady over the fence around the race track at runaway speed.

Mrs. Johnston very pluckly remounted and rode the entry in the next event.

Another little occurrence that created some amusement was when Mr. Hooff's "Commonwealth" kicked one of the bystanders. Mr Hooff apologized, and when the victim continued to groan, he turned and requested him to stop, as he had begged his pardon. "A genteman don't complain after an apology has been offered," said Mr. Hooff with great dignity.

The ladies who rode during the day were Mrs. Blair Johnson, of Warrenton, who won first, with Favorito, in the ladies' green hunter class, and first with Robin Adair in the park hack class, Mrs. Johnson, who drove for Mr, David Dunlop, won first and second in the ladies' lop, won first and second in the indies driving class, Mrs. Allen Potts won first, with "Firelight," in the Corinthian class, and second with Radiant, a three-year-old in the park hack class, an dthird, with Radical and Brilliant, in the park tandem class. Miss Gettrude Skelton, riding for ner, won third, with Sourcets at Beattle, of Richmond, won third in the Corinthian hunter class with his Deep Ovation to Willard. Licutenant-Governor Willard, who gave one of the silver cups that were contested for to-day, received an ovation. As he walked into the grandstand the land played Dixle and the crowd chered

As he walked into the granstand the band played Dixle and the crowd chtered wildly. There is not a hand on the ground that the popular candidate has not grasped, and not a male car into which he has not whispered.

The races were run in mud six inches deep, and the jocks were simply plastered. Slik that was as fresh as paint this morning has been absolutely ruined.

Mr. Robert Taylor, on "Moonsoon," rode a great race in the half-mile dash, getting away last and simply working his way to the front in the strotch, winning by a neck from "Thad," who gave him a run home for the money. The only surprise was that none of the ten jockeys were killed. As the first steeplechase was called, a large crowd gathered in the "infield." They were adorned with horse blankets, like a hand of stage Indians, for the most part, for rain stilliell, and the ground was very wet.

A Sensation. The sensution came with the second ime around at the jump just below the trand-stund, when Mr. Dion Karr's 'Fire-ay' feli heavily and rolled completely over her rider, a negro professional. It was thought that the mare had broken her neck, but later it was found that she was only badly winded. An ardent sportsman sat upon her weary head, while some four hundred people gathered around and gays advice. After some delay the mare was gotten to the stable.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12 .- A new and interesting phase of the cotton leak through the publication of the letter of Walter C. Hubbard, president of the New York Cotton Exchange, addressed to President Roosevelt, in which the writer declares that the members of the exchange had been "greatly shocked by the recent disclosures of venality in the Department of Agriculture," and requesting a full investigation of the methods which led to the corruption, with a view of preventing the possibility of recur-

The Secretary wrote a tart reply, in which he informed Mr. Hubbard that he owed no one an apology in the light of having done his duty to the best of his ability, and that when he got anything that looked like facts, he promptly sent to the secret service officers to hunt them down.

The case in which Mr. Hubbard referred in his recent letter to the Secretary occurred in 1999. On December 20, of that year, Mr. Hubbard sent the Sec-

After allowing two months to clapse, and not hearing anything further, the Secretary on March 28th, 190, called upon the secret service for information as to whether they had made any discoveries. On the following day, Secretary of the Treasury Gage replied as follows:

Moore, who removed from Sydnorsville to his present home near Constable Seth Kesler's, four miles from Boon's to some of his present neighbors, and it is alleged that two young men, Luther

Moore and his family slept on the Sth charges of dynamite under the residence with a view to blowing up the building or frighteling the family away.

The sills of the house were broken, and a little child is said to have been badly injured by the explosion. The Warrants have been issued for the atrest of the Wray boys and are in the

But for the fact that the parties using the dynamite were novices, the house and

An investigation into the matter of taxes against the Governor in this city shows, according to the books of the commissioner of the revenue, that this officer regularly assessed his personal property for taxation from the time here as Attorney-General until he went into the Governor's Mansion, and the books of the treasurer and city collector show that all those taxes were and the books of the treasurer and city collector show that all those taxes were promptly paid. Following out the custom herotofore prevailing as to the assessment of property in the mansion under former Governors, which property belongs to the State, the commissioner says he has not assessed property there during the incumbency of the present executive.

The statement of Mr. James shows that all the poll taxes assessable against the Governor up to date have been settled.

BIG MEETING OF IS DELINQUENT VIRGINIA FARMERS

Ex-Governor Tyler Presides Over State Institute at Roanoke.

PRACTICAL VERY

Deep Earnestness in B-th the Speakers and the Hearers.

ROANOKE, VA., July 12 .- Over three hundred farmers, representing every section and nearly every county of Virginia session of the Virginia State farmers' institute, which opened to-day. Delegates Governor Tyler, who is president of the organization, said to-night he believed present when the convention begins its second day to-morrow. This bids fair to be most largely attended, and the most important meeting of farmers over held are entirely different from those of the farmer, finds a great deal to interest him in the sessions of the institute.

Experience with deliberative bodies of various kinds from synods and conferences, and associations to State Legisla tures, constitutional conventions, and the Congress of the United States, convinces me they lose more time and that the members who address the chair miss the members who address the case miss the point oftener and further than do these hard-headed farmers who are here talking over farm topics and discussing methods aimed towards the improvement of agricultural conditions in Virginia.

They Get There. The horse sense, the directness and the curnestness of the papers and addresses at the session to-day impressed all who heard them. Proceedure was not always in accord with the canons of parliament law, but the farmers have a way one wender whether there may not be such a thing as too much parliamentary law in the conduct of law-making bodies. While all the addresses to-day were eminently practical in character, and the speeches were along lines which elicited the closest attention, the scarcity of farm labor and the question of immigration easily overshadowed all others in point of interest.

This immigration question has not been acted on by the institute. It will come up to-merrow in the form of a resolution looking to legislative action to induce Europeans to settle in Virginia. The appeal comes from the farmers of Virginia, who find it utterly impossible
